Keymacro is a personal assistant with keyboard shortcuts. The software allows you to create shortcuts for your browser, email clients, spreadsheets, FTP, SSH, VPN clients, and many others. Keymacro can be installed on your desktop or notebook computer and runs from the system tray. It provides an easy-to-use interface and the current keyboard shortcuts. Furthermore, Keymacro comes with a taskbar utility that helps you navigate through the shortcuts you created. Keymacro has been developed to serve as a quick assistant that allows you to create keyboard shortcuts for your personal use. These can be accessed via a keyboard shortcut or by the toolbar in the system tray. With Keymacro, you can configure any number of keyboard shortcuts for your favorite programs. So, for example, if you regularly use Microsoft Word and create documents you might want to create a shortcut that opens the program automatically when you press Ctrl + Shift + D. With the built-in feature, you can even move the mouse pointer to the shortcut and start typing the name of the program. We have noticed that although Keymacro works very well, it doesn't support some popular programs out of the box. It needs to be configured via a configuration file. In addition, the application supports instant access to your shortcuts and allows you to navigate through them using a toolbar. Overall, Keymacro is a decent software program, but is a bit limited in terms of features.
