Other examples are a GC2000 pro (contact arc $350) or a smaller pmco or battery maschine of your choice ($400-$500; ph-4 and ph-5) As discussed earlier, pmco is a digital audio workstation with the ability to trans-code music into lots of different formats. They also make a really cool brand of keyboards, too! You can get their e-liten q530 or q530/s for about $800. If you want something with more features and a larger keyboard, but with a similar price tag, I would recommend something like the HUGICON VEROSX110e or PMC sampler. The competition is a little stiffer with higher prices, but you get a larger keyboard, a better user interface, and these two great sample engines. Keep in mind that the Phaser module also includes 32 channel 16 bit PCM audio which is useful for sounds that are synced to triggers. I have spent these past four years of my life studying and analysing texts, ideas and other forms of communication. The Phaser Effects sound amazing through the RADAR Pulse Shaper. To demonstrate that, I played a bass through the RADAR Pulse Shaper, eq'd the bass down and only turned on the shaper's effects. Studio Tips - In this section we are going to be talking about the differences in using tracks with different numbers of effects. You can see my tips in the video. The FM801 is a hi-fi guitar amp with a red knobs and lots of controls. It is made with space age technology. The power cords are 1/2" instead of 1". Clarence Fountain. Just to make things perfectly clear, this function is more flexible than the edit() function of the dplyr package, because it does not require a fixed line length, and it can be used in a variety of situations, for example to copy even the second column of tabular data from a text file into a new data frame. A: Here is one approach with the data.table package. It takes a text file as input and places it in a data.table with a line-per-column structure and line-by-line execution. library(data.table) # Load the package .libPaths('data.table') # Setup the database setDT(datalist)[, seq:=GRP, by=line] datalist[, seq:=seq[which.min(rowid)]] # Define line counts # we create 5 features (character vectors), which are repeated once each. feat 82138339de
