Wrapper For Chrome [32/64bit]

Wrapper for Chrome Crack is a nifty, little extension that aims to offer you a more convenient method of organizing and bookmarking your tabs. Wrapper for Chrome is a nifty, little extension that aims to offer you a more convenient method of organizing and bookmarking your tabs. Right off the bat, it must be said that technically speaking, it's not exactly groundbreaking since apart from the fact that it allows you to share your so-called "wrappers," it does not offer a whole lot of extra functionality when compared with Chrome's primary bookmark and tab manager. User-friendly and simplistic tab manager for Chrome The main highlight of Wrapper for Chrome is, of course, the convenience it offers. For instance, it's reasonably easy to deploy the extension from the Chrome Web Store and, just like most other extensions, it lives in the browser's toolbar, right next to the address bar. Click its icon, and you're presented with a simple pop-up user interface that sports three main categories, Open Tabs, My Wrappers, and Share With me. Please note that this extension requires either an official wrapper account or a valid Google account. Makes organizing and "wrapping" tabs feel like a walk in the park The first section allows you to view all your open tabs and close them directly from the extension's UI while the second one allows you to create new "wrappers" which can be thought as better-looking bookmark folders. Click the plus-shaped button from the lower right side of the UI and select the exact tabs you want to be wrapped and enter a title, a description, and choose a color. Wrappers can be easily managed and even shared and, better yet, they can be easily accessed via the smart filter-based search function. Lastly, the Shared with me section might also come in handy for collaboration purposes and is the place from where you can access all the wrappers shared with you by other Wrapper users. Designed as a user-friendly replacement for Chrome's default bookmarking tools All in all, Wrapper for Chrome is a useful tool that's mainly intended for users who require a predefined/fixed set of tabs to juggle about with. It's true that it sports a fairly elementary feature set and that it's not the most eye-catching extension of this sort out there but it works well, and its simplicity is exactly why it's correctly intended for day-to-
