What do left-leaning students really think of right-wing speech? In my experience, it doesn't matter very much. The ideology of the people you are criticizing usually doesn't matter to them that much. What really matters to them is that you are a jerk. The issue I am raising is that, when you are politically correct, you tend to be less critical of left-wing speech than right-wing speech. The typical progressive would not mind hearing "what a load of horseshit" if it were coming from a conservative. But when it is coming from someone who is socially liberal, or who supports gay rights, or feminism, the first thought that comes to mind is, "Oh, that is a load of horseshit."

This does not mean that liberals don't have criticisms of conservative speech. a1d647c40b
