Download the latest version from: just another day in the office for a worker who was in a rented van when it was set on fire outside Johnstone Community Campus, where an anti-immigration rally was being held Friday. The worker was waiting in his van for the metro bus on Mowat Avenue near Isabella Street S.E. at 12:10 p.m. Friday when it was set ablaze. He rushed to the building's front entrance, where he immediately saw two men and a woman emerge from the building and run away from the scene. He also told CTV News that he yelled at the burning van to stop, but it continued to burn. He said he recognized the van as it was the same one he had rented the previous week. The driver of the van told the worker that the fire was started deliberately. CTV News spoke with a spokeswoman for the Ontario Provincial Police, who said they had a van on scene Friday afternoon, but it was not related to the incident. The bus company, STC, offered transportation to the rally from downtown's John G. Diefenbaker Hall at 1:30 p.m. A story posted on social media shows footage of the burned-out van at the scene, in what police have described as a deliberate act. Two people were arrested outside a Johnstone Community Campus in Calgary Friday afternoon, after a protester alleged that three people in a van set the van on fire and fled the scene. "It's a hate crime. That's what it is. I don't know what else to call it. This is an anti-immigrant, racist hate crime. I am furious," said protester Simon Tisch, who lives in Australia, when speaking with reporters Friday afternoon.

Tisch was held Friday at the corner of Mowat Avenue and Isabella Street S.E. Tisch appeared in court Saturday afternoon and a charge of aggravated assault has been laid against him.
