I have a couple of classes that implement a class protocol. And I have one class that inherits from these protocols. protocol classA{} class classB: classA{} class classC: classA{} I would like to always have a classC automatically implement all the class A protocol operations. And I don't want to have to manually add them each time. classB and classC should automatically implement classA's protocol. classC is not the "same" type as classA. How can I have this effect automatically? A: You can just make classC inherit from protocol classA: protocol classA{} class classB: classA{} class classC: classA{} classB and classC now automatically inherit protocol classA's methods, and you
