Achieves a natural looking random "jagged" path extrusions with a variety of transition effects. This plugin allows you to create paths easily, it provides all the transitions you need to create compelling 2D/3D work. The main goal of the After Effects plugin is to produce powerful 3D effects, by combining 2D and 3D transitions and use new 3D effects. No previous After Effects experience is required. 3D Serpentine features : 20 Extremely Random Path Extrusion Effects. We have created 20 Extrusion transitions which could be used to create different themes and give your project a interesting interactive depth. The Transition selected will be the next Extrusion for the curve. The Curves created are fully editable (Goto - Edit - Curves), Keyframed, and you can set the Extrude Path to any of the 3D Layer created. Multiple Digit offsets. The Digit Offset of the Extrusion Curve could be random, it can be 0-80, creating a 3D texture effect. The Extrusion Curve could be a composite of up to 64 Curves. Goto - Edit - Curves. Drag and drop the curves into the Goto curve box. Type your own keywords into the Goto Keyword box. You can Preview what the effect will look like in realtime. Conventionally, in the data communication field, a method of verifying whether or not data communications are normally performed has been known. For example, a method of verifying whether or not the execution of a program sequence is normally performed is known. The verification of the execution of a program sequence can be realized by monitoring the execution status in which a program sequence is being executed, in real time. The verification of the execution of a program sequence (hereinafter referred to as a "program sequence verification") can be realized by setting up communication with a communication partner during execution of the program sequence and monitoring the communication status, in real time. Specifically, a communication partner sends a command to the communication partner's own communication apparatus, and this communication partner's communication apparatus confirms that the command is received. If it is found that the command was not received, it is determined that the communication sequence was not correctly performed. When the communication partner is the peer apparatus on the route side of the Internet, the above program sequence verification may be performed with the peer apparatus. When the communication partner is a communication
