[url= What are you waiting for, how about jumping in to multi tasking?! Making an online record of your own life, as a video stream, is nothing new. Most technology has allowed people to start uploading their own content, and people are starting to generate web series of their own lives. One good example of this is 'My Life As a Video,' and you can create it with the help of a simple online application called 'MyLife.tv.' What is it? The application is an online tool which will create an online record of your life. What it is, is a mixture of different services which allow you to create your own video, upload it, and then share it. The application is easy to use, and as you can see from the short demonstration video, you will be able to upload your own content within no time at all. How it works The application works by allowing you to select your video source, as well as the duration of the video. Then you can start recording your activities, and then take the video as a live stream. You can also choose whether you want to share it on Facebook, Twitter, or any other social media site. There are lots of options You can start a video live, but once it is completed you can choose to save it to your computer. You can also record up to 100 minutes, and choose to save every 30, or 60 seconds of video you take. You can also download the final video from the 'MyLife.tv' website. As far as content, the application allows you to select from a number of sources. You can browse through your video or music library to choose what you would like to record, or you can even go and record directly from your webcam. There are lots of different video formats The application also allows you to choose from a wide range of file formats, in order to upload the final video. You can choose from AVI, H.264, WMV, MP4, MOV, MOV, and other formats. You can even use your own microphone There are no limitations on the length of the video, and it's

Integrated Google Drive 8. Integrated Dropbox and Box Description: Have you ever wanted to have a command line alternative to Sublime Text editor? Maybe you also want to have a lightweight, cross-platform text editor in your operating system, like Notepad in Windows? Well, luckily, there's an app that can fulfill all your needs. It's called Notepad++. However, being completely free, it's often the victim of adware. What is Notepad++? This text editor comes from the FOSS community and is developed by Notepad++ Ltd. Notepad++ is a cross-platform text editor developed in C++, which is available on Windows, Linux and OS X. It also supports Unicode and offers syntax highlighting, code folding, document security, search and replace, jump to line, plug-ins and many more features. How do I install Notepad++ on OS X? You can install Notepad++ by installing its Mac version from its official website. When you install the Mac version of Notepad++, it will ask you to install Google Chrome (or Safari) as the default browser. Since Chrome is the default browser on OS X, you can safely set Notepad++ to be the default editor for any new files you open. What is Notepad++'s similarity to Sublime Text? Sublime Text is a popular text editor for programmers. It features a great editor interface with multiple tools. However, it is a very heavy text editor for those who want an ultimate editor. Sublime Text is quite expensive as it costs $70 for the trial version. Not
