Paying homage to the 2010 FIFA World Cup – the most-watched global sporting event of all time – FIFA World Cup winner Cristiano Ronaldo led the U.K. into the FIFA Interactive World Cup in London by scoring five goals and setting up two more. Ronaldo’s exploits were rewarded with a World Cup trophy and also an appearance in the FIFA Interactive World Cup Trophy Room, where players get to take a short photo with an actual trophy. EA Sports Player Ratings This year’s squad of FIFA 22 cover stars include 17 of the world’s top players, including Cristiano Ronaldo, Lionel Messi, Neymar, Harry Kane, Zlatan Ibrahimovic and Kylian Mbappe. By rating them on every aspect of their playing style, players earn a variety of attributes (“Eyes”, “Head”, “Skills”, “Speed”, “Tackles”, “Strength” and “Vision”, etc.). These attributes contribute to several game performance stats including the FUT Points statistic, which rewards players for performing certain actions within games and the FIFA Training Emulator, which allows players to trial their skills on training grounds. In addition to these performance statistics, players can also show off their individual skill attributes by earning attributes for their gameplay. For example, Ronaldo earns “Head” for shot accuracy, speed and heading, and Bale earns “Head” for passing and dribbling. In the “Battle of the Sexes”, players can play as their favourite male or female player. The game also includes several female-specific attributes, such as “Long and Powerful Crosses”. Another improvement to FIFA 22 is the addition of over 100 national team kits, which players can customize in the Online Pro Clubs. Players can also edit their teams’ kits with FIFA Ultimate Team Ultimate Kit Creator, as well as upload their custom kits to the EA Sports Ultimate Team app. EA Sports FUT Pro Clubs EA Sports FUT Pro Clubs is an upgrade to the existing FUT Pro Clubs, which allows players to challenge and unlock up to 72 players, including their favourite national team players. All 72 players are grouped into 4 teams and each team consists of 4 positions. Players can customize team kits, individual player attributes and club kits. Once a player unlocks a player, he or she
