A: It's simply last.fm through their API, so it's no different than using the standard player on last.fm (which I've posted about a few times). You can look at the source code and see the elements that are being loaded in your source.

A: Check out the source of some of your favorite widgets. They have a ton of APIs. I believe Last.FM used to be the primary source of data on the 'net, and many widgets still are. Last.FM's widget player was a pretty original implementation, I think, so you may be just seeing the source of the widget that most closely matches what you're used to.
