To ensure that player movements and tackling animations are correct, the game was also tested in motion using Halo's "Firespace," a gaming environment which uses full-body motion capture to give players a truly accurate representation of the player's movements on the pitch. The specific on-field data collected for each player and for each specific incident has been put to work in the game to ensure that each player feels weighty and smooth in his or her movements and animations. – FIFA 20 introduced a new camera setting, Player View (Camera Shape), allowing users to change the camera angle from third-person to first-person (Player View). The previous system allowed only for third-person camera angles to shift to first-person. The previous version had only allowed access to first-person by using the Player View button. Users can now open the Profile Settings and find the Camera Shape setting and choose between Third-person and First-person (Player View). – FIFA 20 and its companion apps have been updated to improve the overall quality of live match broadcasting. The video dialogues will now stand out better and the overall presentation will be more immersive for viewers. "Highlights" are now stored in a dedicated section inside the match report. "Highlights" will now be shared among FIFA 20, FIFA Ultimate Team™ and the Free Agents™ app. – FIFA 20 will be compatible with Xbox One X, enabling players to enjoy the game in 4K Ultra HD. Users can now make better use of their console's GPU by accessing settings to set the maximum 4K quality to either 'Auto' or 'Ultra' The "Ultra" setting will have a better visual impact when the player is in close proximity to the camera. The other settings are intended for use with open spaces and the "Auto" setting will preserve the overall visual quality of the game. – The "View" settings menu allows players to switch between the "TV" and "Original" views. The TV view lets you choose the screen that displays the number of matches in progress and the scores, while the "Original" view replicates the original broadcast view. – The Ultimate Team "Score+" item now features an icon to quickly launch the app when the player is ready to compete in a live game, meaning that he or she no longer needs to close the

FIFA is the best-selling sports video game franchise of all time. EA SPORTS FIFA is a trademark of EA Canada. This article is published here by permission of EA. in Launched in September 1989, FIFA, the game that revolutionised sports gaming, has now sold more than 250 million copies worldwide. This year, FIFA 22 will include many additional features that will keep players engaged, entertained and challenged. This year, new features include an improved Player Impact Engine, new Player Intelligence, breakaways, Player Impact Engine adjustments and playable women and U.S. players. By incorporating these and many other innovations, FIFA 22 delivers deeper gameplay experiences that are even closer to the real thing.

Improvements to the Player Impact Engine The Player Impact Engine (PIE) is a simulation feature that calculates how players will perform in the game and makes them physically move accordingly. Players can be in or near the box during a gameplay situation and they may physically receive a penalty, a player may be fouled and the resulting penalty is displayed. In addition, players can be in or near the penalty area, which affects how they perform in the gameplay situation.

Throughout the PIE, players' skills such as their speed, pace, acceleration and control are factored into the equation. Players can be one hundred metres from the box and still be tracked and rewarded. Players are sensitive to the space in the penalty area. For example, a player has to be closer to the box to be tracked on a free-kick, making their performance more accurate. Additionally, a player moving closer to the penalty area can receive a penalty or even score. PIE also contributes to player-to-player interaction during gameplay. If a defender receives a last-minute penalty, the penalty is assessed and a player receives a free kick away from goal. While video analysis, Player Impact Engine and additional factors could influence a penalty, one hundred per cent of the time the player will receive the penalty, irrespective of the other factors. This is because the risk-reward factor is weighted towards the player receiving the penalty. This is achieved by differentially weighing the factors using the PIE. For instance, if a player has completed a passing game with his teammates and he sees a defender receive a last-minute penalty, he automatically receives the penalty. The PIE calculates that if the defender receives the penalty, the player will score the goal. Therefore, the odds are in his favour. For
