

Photoshop Editing Basics — Tools Photoshop has a very extensive set of tools and workflows that allow you to create, design, retouch, and even create artwork to be displayed on websites. The tools are designed to be easy to use and there are good tutorials on the Internet to teach you how to work with Photoshop. Along with teaching you how to work with the tools, tutorials also teach you how to use Photoshop from a more creative standpoint. The Hand: This tool includes tools for drawing, measuring, and for measuring and drawing specific elements of an image: Pen Tool: The Rectangular Pen Tool enables you to create new objects by drawing boundaries within an image or a particular area on the canvas. It is also used for drawing shapes and outlines. The Pen tool allows you to draw a shape, select it to be filled or stroked, and adjust the size and shape of the lines. The brush tool works well for details such as painting hair and fabrics. Using the Brush Tool will allow you to create fine details and highlights with soft edges or a hard edge. If you create a brush of a different shape, you can also change its softness or hardness. You can add a new stroke by activating a new brush or using the Eraser. You can use the Eraser as much as you like, but if you don't want to accidentally erase the image itself, it's useful to choose "Erase from Selection." The Paths tool helps you to create custom shapes and channels within the image: The Paths tool allows you to create a shape called a channel. This can be used to fill or strobe an area of an image. You can adjust the size and color of the shape by using the Align and Size buttons above the Paths tool. The Gradient tool enables you to pick a color and adjust the darkness or lightness of each color in the image. The Color Picker provides a convenient way to choose a color and enables you to copy and paste the color that you pick. The Magic Wand tool searches the image for the nearest color of a certain hue and selects the entire image. It helps to separate an image into specific sections. The Brush tool works well for larger areas of the image. The Lasso tool selects a shape within the image. You can select the area of the image by using the mouse. You

Adobe Photoshop now has over 20 years of history and a long history with the photography industry. Ask HN: Someone locked themselves out of their AWS account, What do I do? - will_brown I have had a RequestToken sent to me after I created an AWS account. I have verified my email and password but I am still locked out. If I have the correct credentials that is. (say I did use the email I sent myself to create it) I have never received a confirmation message for the RequestToken and when I change my password the password is not changed. At this point I assume they changed the password or used the requestToken sent to me to create the account, but they forgot to go to the verification page the emailed me and so are locked out. I have tried logging in using the IP address I get sent for my RequestToken and it says my account is locked. If I use the IP address of the IP address associated with the email I sent myself (which is the same IP the requestToken was sent to), I get the same error message, my account is locked. What to do? ===== lsiunsuex You haven't provided enough information. The "request token" is basically a unique identifier for your account with AWS. It's typically a long, random string generated when your account is created. You will need to log into the site you initially provided your info (i.e. Gmail) and see if the "request token" provided by AWS is the same. If so, contact AWS and ask them why it died. If the request token is different, then login to the site they provided the email and password for and see if the request token matches. If it does, then the system you provided access to is valid and you can login with that credential. If neither works, then you'll have to email AWS and ask them to reset the account. There's a good chance they didn't register an account with that username and email account combination. They'll reset the account and you'll be set. Now, the only reason I can think of to have the same ip address for the request token would be if they've already used the IP they provided to register, or someone else did that on their behalf. ----- joelrunyon Don't know why you would expect that kind of information from here though, so it's likely you wouldn't get

What's New in the Adobe Photoshop 2021 (Version 22.4.3)?

Husband-and-wife team: What we've been up to By Michelle Singletary Published: Monday, November 26, 2012 at 01:50 PM. - Muriel and Rudy Jones work in sales and marketing. They have two daughters: Alicia, age 10, and Ebri, age 5. And they live in Charlotte, N.C. Q. If you weren't a sales professional, what else would you do? Muriel: "I would be a great mom. I'd homeschool the kids. And of course, she would go on and do the things she does today." Rudy: "I was in sales for 30 years. I left the business to come home, be a dad. I work for a great company called J.C. Penney, which is a classic example of a retailer. Sales professionals, we have a sales mentality. We have a great sense of what we want, and how to get it for the consumer." Q. Where are you from? Muriel: "Charlotte, N.C." Rudy: "I'm from Buffalo, N.Y. We moved to Charlotte when Rudy was four." Q. Tell us about your family. Muriel: "My husband and I met in college, and we were both working for major companies. He was still in the big corporate world. He worked for Bank of America, and we were working together." Q. How did you meet? Muriel: "I was working in the call center. He worked in the customer service department. I got frustrated with the call center culture and moved to the other side of the phone. We knew each other in the beginning, but we didn't start dating until a few years after that." - Q. What do you like best about your spouse? Rudy: "That she is extremely driven. I have a great balance. I have a very, very strong sense of what I want, and what I'm comfortable with, and I know what I'm not comfortable with. And she's very receptive to that, too." Q. How did you work that out? Rudy
