This workbook can be used to analyse, outline and create a plan for a specific project. It is an invaluable resource for students, school groups, teams and business personnel. This workbook gives suggestions and examples of how to spend time wisely. It also provides a list of the skill level of the tasks you can perform. Here are a few tips for an effective use of this book: Learn through the examples Use the recommended structures, provide other suggestions, and then do your best to create a plan that fits the needs of your company. Real projects When carrying out the plan, do not hesitate to adapt the steps you carry out to suit the real situation. For example, if you do not have all the resources needed for the project, you must consider delaying one or more steps. You must always consider the problem and the effects of the project on the company you work in. Make notes The workbook provides many examples that will allow you to gain the skills you need. The notes will help you identify the most important steps and you can modify the plan at any time to meet the needs of your company. Remember the deadline This workbook is not a time-management tool.
