To apply any of these settings, you must first press Ctrl+A (to select all the visible areas of your image) and then choose the Edit ⇒ Preferences option (often found in the File menu) and look for the option in the Display and Print section. If you want to see the differences in the settings or make comparisons between several images, use the Show option under the Preview pane on the right side of the screen, as shown in Figure 3-2. In addition, you can rotate the image left or right by using the Rotate tool located on the keyboard's right side. Changing a Selection's Color You can change the color of any selection on your image by using the Magic Wand. (You can easily import a selection from another image by pressing Alt+Shift+A+A.) First click the Magic Wand tool and then move it over the area you want to change. Click to place the focus of the Magic Wand on an object you want to select and then click again to deselect all the areas you don't want selected. After you select the object you want to change color on, the Options bar appears. Click the Color Swatches tab to access options for changing the color of your selection. You can choose how many colors you want to assign to the selection. You can also choose whether you want to change all the selection's pixels or just specific pixels. As you change the color on the selection, you see the other colors assigned to the selection fade out or change to reflect the new color. A preset option in Photoshop is the Magic Eraser tool, shown in the left side of Figure 3-3. The tool erases all colors except for the preset color — any other color you assign to the tool is ignored. Changing an Image's Color You can use a color from any of the available options to change the colors of an image. You access these options by clicking the Pencil icon under the Options bar. This allows you to quickly change the color of an image. The following list provides some example color choices. Hue: The Hue option allows you to change the color of the selected object or

What is Photoshop Elements? Photoshop Elements is for those of you who love digital images, or just for a casual user to those who want to edit images for a hobby. It provides you with a simple interface and a very intuitive workflow. It contains most of the Photoshop features such as layers, masks, brushes, filters, etc. It can import most of the graphics formats that you can come across in the digital world such as image files and vector graphics. There are also tools for fixing up the photos, smoothing out problems and correcting color. It can also be used as an image-editing tool for web design. It is a very friendly editing tool for the majority of users. While many of you can master Photoshop in no time, for you, Photoshop Elements is the ideal editing tool. Once you finish editing, you are given the choice of saving the image in different types such as .JPG, .PNG, .BMP, or .PSD. Why should I get Photoshop Elements? Photoshop Elements is a very simple alternative to Photoshop as it lacks many of the features. But it does feature most of the essential features and you are still able to do a lot of things such as touch up images, edit photos, and so on. You do need to learn its interface to use it effectively, but it's not an onerous task. If you use both these versions of Photoshop, Photoshop Elements is ideal for users who are new to Photoshop. This program is great for beginners because it gives you the ability to edit photos without being overwhelmed by all the options and features. It is especially suitable for people who are interested in editing photos and photo-quality images. It contains the basic tools and features of Photoshop such as layers, masks, filters, and more. It also contains some advanced features such as retouching and fixing problems. Therefore, you're able to use it for all of your photo editing needs. To put it simply, if you need to edit photos, consider getting Photoshop Elements. It's not the perfect replacement for the professional version of Photoshop. But it is a nice and simple photo-editing tool for you. It's also a good alternative to other Microsoft Office applications such as Word, Excel, or PowerPoint. Milestones in Treatment of Hepatitis C (Episodes #19, 20, 21). Due to its very high global prevalence of infection, especially among injecting drug users, and the ability of hepatitis C virus (HCV) to evade host immune responses, hepatitis C remains a worldwide epidemic. The chronic nature of the disease and poor response to interferon (IFN) monotherapy encouraged the development of IFN-free, direct-acting antiviral agents, which, when combined with pegylated IFN/ribavirin (PEG-IFN/RBV), have revolutionized the treatment of hepatitis C virus. However, all of these therapies have significant limitations. As part of the #19, #20, and #21 podcasts, we briefly review milestones in the treatment of HCV during the past few years. Q: Is it possible to construct a DOM tree starting from the root and going down? I need to create a DOM tree starting from the root and going down while following all possible paths, but still strictly following the document hierarchy. Currently I do something like: `var elm = document.querySelector("");`
`var depth = 0; var stack = []; while (elm) { console.log(elm); if (elm.parentNode) stack.push(elm); elm = elm.parentNode; depth++; }` and it basically prints the following tree: root child 1 child 2 child 3 child 4 child 5 child 6 child 7 child 8 child 9 child 10 child 11 child 12 child 13 child 14 However, this is impractical when I would need to parse multiple HTML files: root child 1 child 2 child 3 child 4 child 5 child 6 child 7 child 8 child 9 child 10 child 11 child 12 child 13 child 14 And here comes my question. Is it possible to do this in a more efficient manner? A: One way is to use recursion: `var elm = document.querySelector("");`

Q: How to find the number of Red cards in hand I have to find the number of red cards in my hand. The way i found so far is by counting the number of red cards and adding the number of cards less than 10. Is there any better way to do this? Possible combinations (Red, Black, Yellow, Blue) are 6.6.6.6.1.2.2.2.3.4.4.4.10 Therefore, number of Red cards in hand =  $6 + 6 + 6 + 6 + 4 + 4 + 4 + 4 + 4 + 4 + 4 + 4 + 1 + 1 + 1 + 2 + 2 = 38$  A: Your method is incorrect. Consider:  $5R+5R+3R+R+R=10R$  EDIT: In fact your method might work, but is not easy to apply on the right hand side (or maybe impossible, don't know how to describe that in a normal way). Consider the numbers on the right hand side, and the corresponding numbers of reds from top to bottom. Now you can calculate the number of reds in the top row, the second row, etc. But some of these numbers cannot be the numbers on the left hand side, because these numbers on the right hand side are not in the line above those left hand side numbers. And when you have calculated the number of reds in the top row, and the second row, etc., you should have a sum of all the numbers on the right hand side, but they might not be different from the numbers on the left hand side. Q: How can I find the cause of a Hangman game's "Hangman game lost"? I made a hangman game using the windows form, and everything went fine until I publish the game and then I found the error below: System.InvalidOperationException: Hangman game lost The word "test" is being displayed in the game. Here is my code: `public partial class Form1 : Form { string[] pieces = { "a", "b", "c", "d", "e", "f", "g", "h", "i", "j", "k", "l", "m", "n", "o", "p", "q", "r", "s", "t", "u", "`
